Suppliers along our route

We've teamed up with a lovely bunch of local suppliers, handpicked to deliver some of your delicious and responsibly sourced refreshments onboard. Most can be found along our route which helps to reduce our footprint, minimise food waste and work together on more sustainable packaging.

Our supplier stories

London Borough of Jam

When tasting their handmade preserves, you will always taste the fruit first followed by natural sugars and a special complementary flavour. That's because since 2011, founder Lillie O'Brien has made sure to only use unrefined sugars and no commercial pectins. Their products are also dairy-free and totally vegan! Try their chuckleberry jam with afternoon tea.

Change Please

Change Please are an award-winning social enterprise founded in 2015. They train people affected by homelessness as baristas and support them with accommodation, mental wellbeing and onward employment. We serve their coffee onboard and every cup you enjoy will change lives.

Mrs Kirkham's Lancashire Cheese

Located just four miles from our railway line in the heart of Lancashire, Mrs Kirkham has made her traditional cheese for over 60 years. Now the reins are held by her son, Graham, who continues to make the cheese on a daily basis using the same traditional technique handed down to him.

The Pudding Compartment

Just a stone's throw from the tracks in North Wales, Steve and the team at The Pudding Compartment are busy creating the rich orange and dark chocolate muffin, lemon shortbread and choc chip banana bread for our lounges, plus the red velvet Jammie Dodger cake served onboard and in lounges. They support many other businesses in the area by buying lots of their ingredients locally.
